Ambrell to Exhibit at the International Manufacturing Technology Show September 10th-15th in Chicago, IL

Attendees can learn about the benefits of induction heating and meet Dr. Girish Dahake to discuss specific client heating applications

Rochester, NY — Ambrell Corporation, an inTEST Company and a leading manufacturer of induction heating solutions, will exhibit at the upcoming International Manufacturing Technology Show (IMTS). The event will take place September 10th-15th at McCormick Place in Chicago, IL, USA. Ambrell representatives will be on-hand in booth #236028 in the North hall where attendees can learn more about the benefits of induction heating from Ambrell.

Dr. Girish Dahake, who leads THE LAB at Ambrell, is one of the world's foremost induction heating experts. He will be at the booth throughout the week to discuss client heating applications. To set up a 1-on1 meeting to review a specific application with Dr. Dahake, register online at: www.ambrell.com/trade-shows.

Also at the booth, attendees can learn more about Ambrell's full line of induction heating equipment. Systems range from 1 kW to 500 kW over a broad frequency range. In addition, Ambrell will also be hosting a free luncheon on Tuesday, September 11th at the show. Tickets to the luncheon will be available at the Ambrell booth.

"We're very excited about this year's IMTS show," said Tony Mazzullo, President of Ambrell Corporation. "We look forward to seeing our customers, meeting prospective customers as well as discussing how we can enhance their heating processes." Mazzullo continued, "Induction offers many benefits over traditional heating methods including speed, precision, repeatability and safety, and our engineers are second-to-none in assessing applications and recommending the right solutions."

IMTS is one of the largest manufacturing technology shows in the world. More than 115,000 attendees are expected from over 100 countries to visit exhibitors that will cover 1.37 million square feet of floor space at McCormick Place. More information on the show, including registration instructions, can be found at: www.imts.com.
